FINNS SAY SCORES OF RED TANKS, 20 PLANES DESTROYED

Report Soviet Forces Suffer Heavily in "Gigantic Attack."

By The Associated Press

HELSINKI, Dec. 20 — Finnish officials announced tonight that scores of Russian tanks had been destroyed and more than 20 enemy planes shot down when the Red army launched a "gigantic attack" with hundreds of tanks on the Karelian isthmus.

Ten tanks were destroyed behind the Finnish lines, authorities said, and several score within the Russian lines.

More than 200 airplanes participated in the attack, they added.

On the northeastern front near Salla 20 Soviet "combat cars" (presumably armored cars) were captured, the Finns said. A cannon also was taken. Salla is above the Arctic circle on the route of the main Russian thrust westward across mid-Finland.

Russian airplanes attempted to bomb a railroad at Koska, 60 miles north of Kanko, without success, the Finns declared.

Air raid alarms were also reported at Turku, Romma, Purvoo and other cities, but the extent of damage and injuries if any was not immediately available.

Workmen at one Koska factory took refuge in the woods when the Russian bombing planes appeared overhead.

Earlier in the day Finland called to the colors all able bodied men of 40 years of age. Previously all reservists up to that age had been mobilized.

Today's mobilization order was the first going outside the normal classes of reservists.

Adds About 20,000

(The call probably adds 20,000 to the Finnish forces, which were authoritatively estimated at 400,000 at the start of the war. Finnish reports have placed the strength of the opposing Red army forces as high as 1,500,000.)

The men called were instructed to report by Dec. 26 with at least a three days' food supply.

All the regular reserves had been called by Dec. 16.

Russian aerial activity increased for the second successive day. Alternating sunshine and protecting clouds aiding the bombing planes.

Air raid alarms were sounded this morning in many cities of southern Finland, including Helsinki, where the alarm was sounded at 10:03 a. m. (3:03 a. m., Marion time), followed by the all clear signal 11 minutes later.

A number of raiding planes were seen over southwestern Finland and four times during the day warnings sounded at Turku (Abo), which was bombed three times yesterday. A number of houses were destroyed yesterday, and a workers' apartment house was set afire. Ten bombs exploded outside the town and four persons were injured.

At Hanko, coastal fortress town on the southwestern coast, an

Fall Back to Mannerheim Defenses on Arctic Front.

By The Associated Press

COPENHAGEN, Dec. 20—Disputing every inch of ground, the embattled Finns took a stand against a superior Soviet Russian force at a "Lapland Mannerheim line" in the Arctic today as anti-aircraft guarded against new air raids over Helsinki.

As the Kremlin sent new masses of troops and mechanized units into the invasion, loss of the 23,256-ton Russian battleship Oktaibrskaya-Revolutia (October Revolution) was reported in a Danish news dispatch. Unofficial but well-informed sources in Helsinki denied the warship had been sunk.

Old Czarist Ship

The battleship was completed in 1914 by the Czarist navy under the name of Gangut. It had a normal crew of 1,125 men and carried twelve 12-inch guns. Previously, a Russian destroyer and patrol ship had been reported sunk by the Finns last week.

At least four Red army planes were shot down yesterday, the Finns said, in a renewal of aerial warfare over Helsinki in which 32 bombs were dropped in the suburban area, causing little damage.

The Finnish communique said their air force had bombed and machine-gunned supply columns and troop rest areas in Russian territory, while land forces made a successful offensive north of Lake Ladoga.

At least 200 Russian tanks have been reported captured during the 21-day hostilities.

The Finns held in military secrecy the location of the new line in the gale-swept Arctic, but it was understood it would be south of Lake Inari near Ivalo.

This is about 28 miles southwest of Virtaniemi, where a Russian motorized detachment had forced its way from the northern corridor.

Dispatches from this front said the Finns had been driven back, although Helsinki observers pointed out the advance of the motorized unit did not mean the area was occupied by enemy forces. Troops often retreat after making exploratory thrusts, the sources said.

BOY SCOUT AREA IS INCORPORATED

Representatives of 4 Counties at Meeting in Marion.

The Harding Area council of Boy Scouts of America was incorporated at a dinner meeting of the executive board at Hotel Harding last night and area officers who have been holding office since the first of the year were named to head the corporation.

The council was incorporated as a non-profit organization and will result in no changes in scouting policies in the area, officials reported. The articles of incorporation were filed to comply with policies of the national Boy Scout organization, it was explained.

Dr. Frank R. Mann of Marion, who has been president of the council, will serve as president of the corporation which will be known as Harding Area Council, Inc. J. W. Llewellyn of Marion, William J. Hunter of Upper Sandusky, Nelson Campbell of Mt. Gilead and George Dustman of Bucyrus were named vice presidents, Harold Grigsby of Marion was elected treasurer and Fred P. Strother, area scout executive, was elected secretary. All held corresponding posts before the incorporation. Trustees for the corporation will be the president and the four vice presidents. All of the terms will end next month.

Since the corporation is a non-profit organization, no stock will be issued and the officers will be elected annually by all scouters in the council who will serve as members of the corporation, scout officials said.

Fifteen members of the executive board representing the four counties in the council attended the meeting. In addition to organizing the corporation, they discussed scouting activities for the coming year and recommended that meetings be held each month for scoutmasters. The camp committee in charge of Camp John A. Owens reported that during the 1938 season the facilities of the camp were greatly increased. Troop 4 was dropped from the council for lack of leadership.

Plans were discussed for the council's annual meeting to be held at Hotel Harding Jan. 30 at which time council officers for the coming year will be elected. Arrangements for the meeting are in charge of [illegible] assisted by Rev. L. J. [illegible]

CRIPPLE DENIES ROBBERY CHARGE

One-Legged Man Accused of Holdup Is Bound Over.

James McDonald, one-legged, 44-year-old pencil salesman from Milwaukee, Wis., pleaded not guilty in municipal court yesterday afternoon to a charge that he attacked a Marion man in an uptown alley Monday afternoon and robbed him of 48 cents.

After a short preliminary hearing, Municipal Judge Martin bound him over to the county grand jury under $1,000 bond. He was taken to the county jail when he failed to post the bond.

The robbery charge was filed by Ray Winslow, 41, of 120 South High street, who told police McDonald attacked and robbed him in an alley back of the Cussins & Fearn store on East Center street.

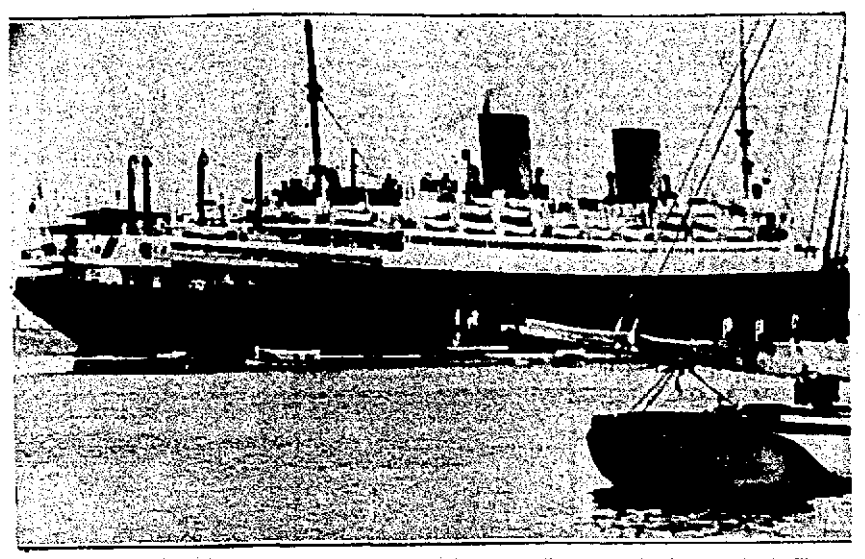
GERMAN LINER SCUTTLED OFF U. S. COAST TO ESCAPE BRITISH



The German luxury liner, Columbus, third largest vessel of the Reich's merchant marine which was scuttled off the American Atlantic coast yesterday to escape a British man-of-war, is pictured above. She was ostensibly bound from Vera Cruz to Oslo.

LONG STAY SEEN FOR NAZI SHIP

Chased Into U. S. Port by English, Freighter May Hide 2 or 3 Years.

By The Associated Press

FORT LAUDERDALE, Fla., Dec. 20—The captain of the German freighter Arauca, chased into Port Everglades harbor by a British cruiser, indicated today the ship might remain here indefinitely.

"It looks as if we might be here for two or three years," Captain Frederick Stengler laughed when told the German luxury liner Columbus had been scuttled off the Atlantic coast to avoid capture or sinking.

The 4,354-ton Arauca, on its maiden voyage, was intercepted yesterday by the eight-gunned cruiser Orion a few miles northeast of here in view of the ocean front.

Eye witnesses said the freighter headed full speed toward the beach.

Captain Stengler asserted the Orion fired a warning shot across the Arauca's bow, about two and a half miles from shore, and signalled for the freighter to follow the British cruiser eastward into Bahaman waters.

"Instead of that," he grinned, "I went the other way."

Speeding toward the beach, the Arauca stopped abruptly just short of the Hillsboro reef and turned around. Witnesses said it then moved out near two southbound American passenger ships, and used one of them, the Shawnee, as a shield until it reached the Port Everglades harbor.

Captain Stengler said he had been given official assurance his ship might stay here as long as it liked because of its status as a merchantman.

The Arauca sailed from Germany in August, and left Vera Cruz, Mexico, Dec. 14, with a general cargo. She carried a crew of 52.

Guns and Planes, Not Men, Seen As Aid for Finland

By The Associated Press

PARIS, Dec. 20—Great Britain and France, in the opinion of military observers, favor sending planes and guns—not an expeditionary force—as the more feasible sort of aid to Finland against the Soviet Union.

This despite the fact that these are resources the Allies need to conserve for their war against Germany.

Geography appeared to be the deciding factor. Planes and their cargoes of guns and ammunition could be flown to Finland. Hazards of the water route and the neutrality of Norway and Sweden would prevent use of the most direct maritime and overland routes.

Finnish circles in Paris anxiously awaited French and British assistance in conformity with the League of Nations' invitation for Finnish aid and ouster of Russia as an aggressor.

The secretary-general of the League, Joseph A. C. Avenol, was busy today arranging for a committee to coordinate aid to Finland from the Allies as well as other league members and non-members. He will go from here to London to continue the work. He has in preparation a memorial to non-league states—which include the United States—urging that they align any assistance with the League's efforts. It was learned whether they would be

Thirty Indicted As Operators Of Illegal Four-State Alcohol Ring

By The Associated Press

DETROIT, Dec. 20—Thirty individuals charged with operating an illegal alcohol ring in Illinois, Michigan, Ohio and Indiana were indicted today in United States district court.

The indictments, in seven counts, charged the government had been defrauded of $100,000 in taxes.

Operations of the group, the government charged, were the most extensive in this area since prohibition. Alcohol was stored and shipped as cleaning fluid, the indictments alleged.

Louis M. Hopping, assistant United States district attorney, said "we have traced 30,000 gallons of liquor shipped from 1935 until last summer and do not know how many more thousands may have been shipped."

Hopping contended the "methods and subterfuges" used were "borrowed from prohibition-era times."

Fred W. Beltz, supervisor for the Michigan-Ohio district of the alcohol tax unit, internal revenue department, said his investigators had discovered that illegal alcohol was manufactured on a wholesale basis in Detroit and retailed through Cleveland and Chicago.

One of the seven counts charges conspiracy linking all the defendants.

Maximum sentence possible for conviction under the law is two years imprisonment and $10,000 fine on each count.

More Funds Are Needed for Yule Community Party

If Chief T. J. McFarland, finance chairman of the community children's Christmas party committee, looks a bit worried these last few days, there's just one reason—the funds for purchasing the treat for the hundreds of the city's less fortunate children who will be at the seventh annual Christmas party next Monday morning at the Palace, just won't reach.

It's the chief's job and that of his co-chairman, Gene Hill, to see that the money's on the line when it comes to paying for the bushels and pounds of candy, nuts, apples and oranges which will go into the bags this coming week-end, for distribution at the theater Monday morning.

"One hundred dollars will put us in the clear," Chief McFarland said today in discussing his end of the party plans. "Responses to the appeals sent out last week are coming in fine, but we do need voluntary contributions from the scores of friends of these children whom we were unable to contact," he continued.

And another thing that is worrying the chief; the indications are there will be more children at the party this year than last year. In fact, the committee is arranging to care for 1,600 boys and girls whose only Christmas will be that provided by the community party.

Tickets for the show and dinner for which Congressman Frederick C. Smith will be host following the theater party will be distributed through the city and parochial schools Friday afternoon, and Chief McFarland will also have some at the fire department for children not in school. Already, parents or brothers or sisters of children with no school contacts have contacted Chief McFarland regarding tickets for the party.

Children at the Marion County Children's home, and shutins will be remembered with gifts and a treat this year as in former years. The city firemen and members of Buckeye Aerie No. 337, Fraternal Order of Eagles, will pack the treat Sunday afternoon and evening, that is if Chief McFarland gets his $100.

By The Associated Press

PIQUA, O., Dec. 20—Joseph D. Clear, deputy state fire marshal, announced today that an employe of the Holland Mills plant, scene of a $100,000 fire Monday, would be charged with arson. Clear identified the employe as William Dowty, 26, who has been held two days for questioning.

Clear indicated further investigation of the blaze would be made. Firemen from six towns were required to bring the fire under control and Fire Chief P. J. Caulfield of Pigua died of a heart attack at the scene.

The Holland Mill Co. was founded by Gus Holland, former official of Old Fort Mills, Inc., of Marion.

FORMER KENTON BOY DENIES DEATH CHARGE

Pleads Not Guilty to Second Degree Manslaughter.

Lewis Nixten Jr., 18-year-old former Kenton youth, who was arrested in Columbus following a fatal traffic accident Sunday and then confessed accidentally shooting a brother in Kenton six years ago, pleaded not guilty to a second degree manslaughter charge in a Columbus police court yesterday afternoon.

The manslaughter charge was filed as a result of the traffic mishap in which three young people were killed and seven other persons injured and had no connection with the shooting of the brother.

Another Columbus youth, Eugene Turner, 18, also was arraigned on a second degree manslaughter charge in connection with the traffic accident and he, too, entered a not guilty plea. Bond was set at $1,500 each pending a hearing Jan. 5.

In Kenton today it was reported that no action would be taken in connection with Nixten's confession that he accidentally shot a younger brother, George, while the Nixten family was living in Kenton, and then collaborated with another brother, Robert, to keep the secret of George's death from their parents "forever."

Prosecutor Rex Hannah of Kenton said Hardin county officials

GERMAN LINER SCUTTLED IN NEUTRAL ZONE

U. S. Studies Whether Act of War Was Involved in Sinking.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Dec. 20—State department officials disclosed today that the German liner Columbus was scuttled almost 250 miles inside America's neutrality zone. Immediately they began a study to determine whether this meant that an act of war had occurred within the zone.

First information yesterday from Stephen Early, White House press secretary, was that the scuttling had taken place when a British man of war had come upon the big liner outside the zone. But later expert calculation of the ship's position given by the United States cruiser Tuscaloosa showed that the Columbus sank nearly 250 miles inside the zone, on a line due east of Washington.

Second Big Problem

This gives the American nations which fixed the limits of the zone in a meeting at Panama this fall their second problem of a possible violation, the first being the British-Graf Spee battle off the coast of Uruguay last week, which, like the Columbus incident, resulted in the sinking of the German vessel involved.

In connection with the neutrality zone limits officials explained while the zone ordinarily was understood to extend about 300 miles off shore it went out, at some points to several hundreds of miles.

A state department official said he was uncertain whether the scuttling of the Columbus was an act of war. He indicated that information thus far received did not show that the British destroyer had shelled the vessel. All information was to the effect that the German crew had sunk its own vessel.

Another angle under study arose from the belief in official quarters here that the Columbus was overhauled on the much-traveled shipping lane between Buenos Aires and Rio De Janeiro and New York.

Officials have been inclined to regard with greater concern belligerent acts occuring on shipping lanes than acts occurring elsewhere, even though inside the neutrality zone.

The statement of the captain of the German freighter Arauca at Port Everglades Harbor, Fla., that his ship might remain there for two or three years met with no opposition from officials. The freighter was chased into the harbor yesterday by a British warship.

One official pointed out that a belligerent merchantman, if not offensively armed, could remain in an American port without limit without being interned unless for some reason or other its presence should become obnoxious to local authorities.

The 10,000-ton Tuscaloosa, on neutrality patrol, came upon the foundering 32,000-ton Columbus late yesterday and rescued 579 crew members and officers. These, the Tuscaloosa was taking to Ellis Island today.

The blazing hulk of the one-time queen of the German merchant fleet was left to sink steamily beneath the Atlantic. Only two German sailors were known to have been lost.

The survivors, among them nine women, were due in New York harbor about 4 p. m., Marion time. If they are found by immigration officials to be bona fide merchant seamen they may remain at liberty in this country for 60 days.

May Be Interned

But should the investigation show them to be German navy men, or disclose that the liner was offensively armed, temporary detention or even internment for the duration of the war might be ordered.

The Columbus was first reported sinking 400 miles east of Cape Henry, Va.

The Tuscaloosa was reported off Ambrose Lightship, just outside New York harbor, at noon today.

Hemmed in by a thick fog and drizzling rain, the vessel was expected to anchor outside the harbor until the weather cleared.

"Fast and Furious" Celebration Of New Year To Be Style for Ohioans

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., Dec. 20—A "fast and furious" New Year's welcome—Ohio's way of ushering in [illegible]

[illegible]sands, anxious to celebrate [illegible] of improving business con[illegible] will crowd laughingly into [illegible] clubs and bars—but they [illegible] buy liquor until after the midnight whistles emit their annual blasts.

Then they'll only have a maximum of 2½ hours to buy alcoholic drinks legally.

Celebrators may acquire the "ring out the old, ring in the new" spirit at private parties and may congregate in public places for a bit of pre-midnight lunch, but the law says spiritous beverages can't be sold on Sunday.

And, take the state liquor department's word for it, there won't be any sold until Sunday Dec. 31 ends and Monday, Jan. 1, begins.

That's where the "swing" will come in—the law also says that holders of most permits must stop liquor sales at 1 a. m. and night club license owners must follow suit at 2:30 a. m. At 5:30 a. m. Monday, the bars can reopen for the day.

But even the quick and "swingy" celebrations won't be allowed in all cities, some city councils forbidding early Monday liquor sales.

Mansfield Strict

Mansfield is one city clamping down the lid from midnight Saturday until 6 a. m. Monday. Sheriff E. P. Long said Richland county's two night clubs would be subject only to state regulations.

A Newark ban also keeps bars closed after midnight. Alliance stops liquor sales at 1 a. m., giving one hour for New Year's welcome.

Columbus city council lifted the usual no-Monday-morning bar rule to conform with state regulations.

Mount Vernon residents recall that their incoming mayor, who will take office coincident with the new year, is known as a dry.

Retiring Mayor Lee Copenhaver at East Liverpool promised a "reasonable attitude" toward night spots.

Lorain has set its New Year's celebration up a day, giving the Saturday night spots until the regular Sunday morning closing hour to stage their parties.

Traffic Problems

Police Chief Russell Poole of Chillicothe said he wasn't worried about after-midnight dancing or liquor sales but that he would try to prevent traffic accidents. The police department will furnish drivers for automobiles whose owners imbibe unwisely. Motorists are asked to call the police if they feel themselves slipping.

"No flasks" was the order at Cleveland where State Liquor Agent S. Donald Friedman warned individuals and drinking establishment owners that arrests would be made for violations.

Many hotels in larger cities will offer entertainment starting at midnight Dec. 31.

Cover charges range from a $7.50 top at one Cincinnati hotel to $1 a couple for patrons of one youngstown spot. Generally they will be about the same as last year.

One leading Columbus hotel scheduled no public New Year's parties. Another offered floor shows and orchestras in two rooms, with early reservations reported plentiful. One large Columbus club will observe New Year's eve Dec. 30.

Rites To Be Held Here Thursday for Charles Wilson

The body of Charles F. Wilson, 46, former Marion resident who died suddenly Monday at his home in Toledo, was brought to Marion yesterday for funeral service and burial on Thursday.

Friends may call at the W. C. Boyd funeral home on West Columbia street, where the funeral will be conducted Thursday at 2 p. m. Rev. Carl V. Roop of First United Brethren church will be in charge. Burial will be made in the Maskill cemetery near Claborne.

Mr. Wilson who operated an antique shop in Toledo, died suddenly of coronary thrombosis at 4:20 p. m. Monday. He went to Toledo from Marion 20 years ago.

He was a native of Richwood, born March 7, 1893, to Henry Wilson, a native of Delaware county, and Emma Riley Wilson, a native of Hardin county. He was married in Angola, Ind., on March 7, 1932 to Miss Maude Hardy.

Mr. Wilson was a member of a Toledo Baptist church.

Surviving are the widow, the father, who lives at 298 Midlam avenue, a daughter Carol Jean of McCutchenville, two sisters, Mrs. Mae Dilsaver of 302 Herman street and Mrs. Martha Thomas of 298 Midlam avenue, and two brothers, Elmer of 307 Midlam avenue and Firman of 598 Ballentine avenue.

KENTON MAN RESIGNS FROM HEALTH BOARD

Special to The Star

KENTON, Dec. 20—Dr. W. D. Combs of Kenton, who Jan. 1 will become city treasurer, today had resigned from the city health board. The board accepted the resignation and, during a business session, requested the New York Central railroad to provide a shelterhouse for use of passengers using southbound Big Four trains.

An Englishman has invented a cigaret holder with a flexible tube that can be extended over a smoker's shoulder to keep smoke from his eyes.

General New Year's Rules To Apply Here

Marion's observance of New Year's eve will conform with celebrations in the majority of other Ohio cities, a checkup today showed.

"Usual enforcement regulations will apply because we see no reason for relaxing control of liquor sales over New Year's," Police Chief William E. Marks reported.

From several sources come indications, however, that the public may hold its observance in local bars and hotels the night of Dec. 30, instead of Sunday night.

Private parties will hold sway on the real New Year's eve and only a few of the city's gayer spots will be open for business more than an hour.

Sunday closing regulations permit the bars to be open from midnight until 1 a. m., with the exception of those holding night club permits, which may remain open until 2:30. They may not open again until 5:30 a. m.

Hatfield, who was handcuffed, broke away from two patrol officers as they prepared to take him to Cambridge for further questioning. Several shots were fired after him.

Police Chief Emery Glints said Hatfield had spent 14 of the last 16 years in penal institutions.

One Is Beloved

BY LOUISE PLATT HAUCK

YESTERDAY: Finally convinced that she will be happy with Bob Trenton, Sue hurriedly marries him. When they move into their lovely house she is happier than she ever thought she would be.

CHAPTER FIFTEEN

Partnerships

"PATSY will divorce Allen one of these days," Bob predicted cheerfully. "She married him for what she could get out of him, and it hasn't proved to be as much as she counted on. Don't worry about him, sweet. By this time next year he'll be free, married to Barbara, maybe."

There was a little silence and then Sue said, a pained note in her voice:

"I'd hate to believe that, Bob!"

"But why?" He was honestly surprised. "You don't want the poor guy tied to her for life, do you? There might be children some day, and then he'd hate the idea of losing them. Allen's brimful of paternal instinct."

"He is tied to her, whether he likes it or not; whether there are children or not, Bob."

"Oh, come now! You don't believe that—not in this day and age. An unhappy marriage is like a bad promise better broken than kept."

"But it needn't be unhappy—always, Bob. I mean—bad marriages can be made into good ones, if people just try hard enough. I mean—in most cases. Of course if a man is unfaithful—deliberately and repeatedly unfaithful—or a wife is not fit to bring up any children there might be.. but even there ought to be years and years of effort before they admit failure."

"You surprise me, Sue! Repeated infidelity! D'you mean me to understand that you—that any woman would forgive infidelity in her husband?"

"I didn't say 'forgive' it, Bob," she answered thoughtfully. "I don't know whether she could or not. I suppose it would depend on many things herself,- him, the other woman, the circumstances. But forgiving it is beside the point.

"It's—it's like any other contract, it seems to me," she went on slowly, thinking it out as she talked "If you enter into a partnership you agree to certain things. It may turn out that you don't like the relationship as much as you expected to, or even your partner, for that matter; but that doesn't release you from your agreement—at least until the time is up. And the time never is up in marriage—not till death do you part, anyhow."

"Great Scott! I didn't know I'd married such a little Puritan! There are mighty few people who feel like that, Sue," he went on gravely, "It surprises me that you do. Why, lots of your friends have been divorced—remarried, even How does it happen that you—"

"Our parents, I suppose; Allen's and mine. I was only twelve when Mother died but even then I remember her saying that marriage took a lot of bearing and forbearing to make it a success. And Dad . . . he was ill a long time, you know He—talked to us. He told us that no two people had ever been more in love than he and Mother were when they were married but they'd had their stormy times, too. He impressed it on us that a successful marriage has to be built up patiently, a day at a time."

"Gold-Digger"

She went on as if he had not spoken.

"And those people you mentioned just now, Bob — those friends of mine who made a failure of their first marriage and hurried into a second I've watched them. They don't seem to me to be making a conspicuous success of the next one, either. I suppose if you're a quitter once you will be again—always in fact"

"D'you know, I'm awfully glad we had this talk? It's clarified something for me."

He laughed a little uneasily. "Your thoughts about our marriage, Sue" Your determination to make the best of it?"

But she was too much in earnest to share his mood

"About Patsy—Patsy and Allen I'm going to do my best to help Patsy succeed in her marriage, Bob! Allen—I can count on Allen, I'm going to have Pats out here, get her as happy a time as I can, encourage her to make the best sort of wife to Allen—that sort of thing!"

His arms tightened about her "Who but my wife could be so forgiving to the girl that practically turned her out of her own home? If you want my honest opinion, it won't do the slightest good Pats is a gold-digger if I ever saw one. But I'll back you up in whatever you try to do, Sweet Sue!"

She pulled his face down to hers, rubbing her soft cheek affectionately against his.

"That's what keeps my heart singing all day long," she informed him, "Knowing that whatever I do, whatever silly mistakes I'll make—and I'm bound to make some, Bob!—you'll be there always, backing me up in what I try to do!"

Patsy responded with alacrity to the overtures of her young sister-in-law. She was enthusiastic over the house, inclined to presume on its generous hospitality But Sue gave no signs of resenting her frequent calls Patsy was asked to many of the charming luncheons the bride gave in the fall, Patsy and Allen were guests at the nicest of the dinner parties

"Look here, Sue, you don't have to do this, you know," Allen urged, "Ask us every time you entertain, I mean. It's—it's mighty forgiving of you to ask us at all considering—well, considering all things! Patsy, of course, is thrilled to death every time she comes here; quotes you, tries to fix her table like yours—that sort of thing!"

If Sue remembered how the older girl had scorned those same ideas and decorations when they were put forth in her brother's home, she gave no sign.

"I'm glad, Allen," she replied simply, and she was glad She thought that Allen was looking better, less careworn these days She seized every opportunity to talk to Patsy as though his happiness were paramount in his wife's mind as Bob's was in her own

Pats was apt to listen with rather a fixed smile.

Measuring Love

"Oh, come now, Sue" she drawled one day when she and Barbara Webb were the only guests. "You must admit that a man who gives you what Bob does deserves more from a woman than—well, Allen, does, for example. Look at this room—" they had finished luncheon and were back in the big livingroom which ran the length of the house "There's not a prettier place in town than this is And it's not just what Ted Wilmington chose, either. You told me yourself that most of the furniture—the pieces that give it an air, the most expensive pieces—Bob picked out himself. When a man lavishes hand-carved Italian chairs on his wife, and tapestry worth several thousand dollars a foot, he'll never lack for the right kind of appreciation"

Allen's sister flushed resentfully. "It happens that Bob is a comparatively rich man and can afford such things. Allen can't. You know nothing would give him more pleasure than to buy you anything you want if he could, Patsy! And surely a wife doesn't measure her love for her husband by his income. I hate to have you even imply such a thing."

Patsy ran an appreciative hand over the brocade of her chair.

"The income helps, my dear! I could condone a lot of faults in a man who gave me a house like this."

Sue did not answer It was Barbara who said hotly: "Allen's a million times too good for you, Pats! And you have exactly the home that Sue came from, you know I guess if it was good enough for her, it ought to satisfy you"

The long gray eyes narrowed maliciously. "It would satisfy you, Babs, dear; is that what I'm expected to understand" Too bad Allen had the bad taste to fall in love with a mere secretary instead of the socially prominent Miss Webb! Sorry, Sue It's just my plebian bad manners."

Sue said tactfully, "Barbara and Forest and Allen and I all grew up together you know. Naturally she wants Allen to be happy. How is Marie" She changed the subject decisively "I've not seen her for a long time"

"There's an easy enough way to remedy that" But immediately her tone became more conciliatory. It was no part of her plan to offend young Mrs Trenton Sue, from a liability had become an asset. If the withdrawal of her share of the housekeeping expenses had left a large gap from Patsy liked to think of, Sue's evident desire to be friendly with her brother's wife was not to be understated There were gifts in Sue's power now: gifts of new gowns, expensive perfumes, even of a car if she chose to buy one for her brother.

Not just yet, of course, she reflected, not while Sue could hardly escape the recollection of that June day when Patsy had taken out the girl's coupe without her knowledge and practically wrecked it. One must give her time to forget that incident, and the quarrel that had followed.

So now she hastened to erase the impression of her acid little speech about Marie.

"As a mater of fact, Marie has a new man in tow. Don't ask me who he is for I don't know myself! I only know," she went on shrewdly, "that she's forever borrowing my best clothes without asking me. It's a nuisance, too. I'm taller than Marie and the little rascal actually had the nerve to shorten a dress of mine last week. She explained it was a dire emergency and she simply had to rifle my wardrobe." She added with a careless air: "Allen will have to buy me another, that's all. He says he can't afford it because his insurance comes due this month But I tell him he can hardly expect me to go in rags because of that!"

YOUR HEALTH

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

Dysentery

Please tell me something about amoebic dysentry and its treatment.

Amoebic dysentrey is a constant source of trouble and reinfection by amoeba carriers. While it is, strictly speaking, a tropical disease, we have enough carriers in the United States to make a pool of infection which can at any moment spread. After the big epidemic of dysenery in 1933 and 1934, the patients were released and there are still a few of them that are proving to be a problem.

As late as 1937 some presented themselves for treatment because of recurrence of their symptoms. They were evidently suffering from chronic amoebic dysentery, which may follow a severe acute attack. In the chronic form there are recurrent attacks of dysentery with, intervals when there may actually be constipation.

What is the treatment for white spots on the hands?

White spots on the skin, usually the backs of the hand and the neck, technically called "vitiligo," have not yielded very well to treatment. About the best that can be done is to advise painting the spots with the juice of walnut husks or some other dye to conceal them. Solution of postassium permanganate of proper strength can be used for this purpose.

Attempts to tan these spots have been made for many years. The trouble is that the real nature of the trouble is a disturbance of pigmentation. The spots resist the action of light, both ultra-violet lights and the sun's rays. The injection of dyes into the bloodstream has been tried. Lindsay, in 1929, reported the cure of a case by the injection of gold sodium thiosulfate, and Cohen reported another similar successful case in 1933.

ROME BROADCAST SET FOR SUNDAY

The networks have scheduled for Sunday a message from Rome as delivered by Bishop Ralph Hayes, rector of the North American college there. The half-hour broadcast will begin at 1 p. m. and include carols in Latin. NBC, CBS and MBS will carry the program.

Programs tonight: Representative Samuel Dickstein at 10 over WJZ-NBC on "Problems of Congress;" Handel "Messiah" from Toronto at 9:30 over MBS.

Marriage Meddlers

By ADELE GARRISON

Olina's Phone Conversation Justifies Madge's Suspicions.

MY INSTINCTS and my training fought a battle with my common sense as I heard Princess Olina stop at the telephone outside my door Something deep within me urged me to spring from my couch, and either close my door or else go out into the hall and speak to the girl, so that she might know I was aware of this nocturnal excursion which I knew she had not dared to attempt until she was sure that her mother was fast asleep.

But my deep concern for Mary's happiness, and for what I feared this girl might be plotting against it, so bolstered my common sense that my instincts and training lost the battle immediately, and, hardly daring to breathe, I listened "with all my ears" to what she was saying

I am blessed with good ears, but I had to strain them to catch the faint tones of Olina's voice, so faint at first that I deduced the operator could not hear her any better than I could. At any rate, she repeated the number in slightly more audible tones, and then I knew that my eavesdropping was justified. For the number she called was that of the hotel at which Philip Veritzen was stopping!

Gives Madge's Name

And the name she gave when the hotel operator responded was mine!

"Mrs. Graham calling again," she said smoothly, in an almost perfect imitation of my voice, and I realized that she must have been eavesdropping herself when I had called Philip Veritzen, and had decided that impersonating me was the quickest way of getting in touch with the great theatrical magnate who was wooing her mother.

The operator evidently had had his lesson after my telephone call. At any rate, there was no delay in her connection, and a second later I heard her whisper: "Mr. Veritzen"

Evidently the Veritzen ears were no better than the operator's, for her next words, while faint, were more audible.

"This is not Mrs. Graham, Mr. Veritzen; this is Olina. I told the operator I was Mrs. Graham so that I could be sure of reaching you."

Then there was a pause, and I knew that Olina was listening to the surprised ejaculations of the great theatrical magnate, together with his flamboyant assurances that she could reach him at any hour, finishing with a query as to how he could serve her. When she spoke again it was with a rush of words.

Couldn't Call Before

"I'm calling you for two things" she said. "I haven't had a chance all day to get you without somebody hearing me to tell you—you know what you asked me to do?"

In the darkness, I clenched my fingers into my palms to keep from crying out. My intuition—and Mary's—had been justified. There was a secret understanding between Philip Veritzen and the lovely young daughter of the exiled queen whom he hoped to marry, and I was sure it concerned Mary's affairs. I feared some plot against her.

How I longed to reach out my hand and take down the receiver of my own branch extension telephone, so that I could hear Philip Veritzen's side of the conversation. But I knew that he was used to all sorts of espionage on him, and would instantly deduce from the inevitable "click," caused by the lifting of the receiver, that someone was listening in.

But her next words were illuminating.

"Oh, you know already that she won't do it," she said, and I knew she referred to my refusal to permit Mary to rehearse with the cast until the day following this one, the early hours of which were being so dramatically occupied. "I tried, but it was no use."

There was another silence, and then she spoke again, evidently in answer to a query as to the second thing she wished of him.

"Important" to Her

"It's something I can't tell you over the telephone," she said, "but it's something terribly important to me. I know how busy you are, but would it be possible for you to come over to the farm house tomorrow forenoon sometime and see me?"

Another silence, and her next reply was confused and less confident.

"No, Maman does not know yet, but I am sure she will approve. And, of course, she will love to see you, I always does—but not before ten o'clock."

A satisfied little laugh punctuated the next interval of silence.

"Half past ten then," she said. "But I can't tell Maman you are coming. I do not wish her to know I telephoned you. I think you will just have to surprise her."

Santa and the TALKING DOLL

by SIGRID ARNE

THE STORY SO FAR: Eric, the son of Lightning, and Leezen, a doll, are headed for the castle of an evil king who makes friends quarrel. If they break his spell the Fairy Queen has said they may go to the Kingdom beyond the sunset.

The Evil King

ERIC and Leezen set out immediately for the kingdom of the evil spirit that makes men quarrel. The Queen of Fairies accompanied them to the gate, and the white fox trotted behind them.

Just outside the gate the Queen of Fairies said, "Now I must leave you. Remember that this evil king is called 'Chatter.' He will seem full of fun. He will try to please you. But then he will try to make you angry with each other. If he succeeds you will never see each other again. If he doesn't, you may do as you wish."

Eric and Leezen listened. The white fox whined a little. His silly hair stood straight up on his back. The Fairy Queen disappeared and Eric pulled a long bell cord at the gate. He smiled at Leezen to give her courage.

The gate swung open and there stood King Chatter himself. He was a roly-poly man with a broad smile. He was dressed magnificently in red velvet with gold chains about his neck. He took Eric and Leezen by the hands, saying, "How charming. Come in."

Smiles Of Welcome

So they walked into the castle with the white fox behind hanging his tail between his legs. The King led them into a handsome hall where a dinner was set. There were gold plates and crystal goblets and great bowls filled with shining red tulips. Nearly three musicians played on harps. There was a group of fine ladies and gentlemen already seated. Everyone was smiling and all nodded welcome.

Through the dinner Eric and Leezen could find nothing that displeased them. After dinner the musicians played waltzes and every one danced. Then King Chatter clapped his hads and every one listened. He chuckled and said. "Now I have a game for us all to play. Beyond that door," and he pointed to a great, double door of carved walnut, "there dies a perplexing corridor. It winds in and out in the castle walls. We shall start through and the first ones back will receive gifts."

"Fine," shouted everyone. So the doors were opened and the group started through the long winding hall ahead. It was lighted with candles. But it was a magic corridor. It was made with mirrors set at such curious angles that people seemed to think they could see around corners. The group walked and walked, some getting ahead, some falling behind. Eric and Leezen were the last in line with the white fox following Eric.

And finally Leezen found herself in a small turn of the corridor alone. She kept looking at her many images in the fine mirrors as she passed but then she stopped in hurt surprise. In one mirror she saw Eric talking and laughing with another man in the company. They whispered and they pointed at her. They laughed. "They're making fun of me," whispered Leezen to herself. She couldn't hear them, but she could see them. "Patience, patience," she whispered to herself. "This is King Chatter's evil."

Horrible Faces

At the same time Eric was having the same experience. He thought he saw Leezen talking about him with another woman in the party. But Eric only grinned and walked on. He remembered the Queen's warning.

Both of them walked through the mirrored corridors for an hour. Then two hours. Each little while they thought they saw each other. Sometimes the images made horrible faces. Sometimes they seemed to whisper. Once Leezen was so sure it was really Eric ridiculing her that she started to run. "He's hateful! Eric is cruel," said a whisper in the air. "No, no," shouted Leezen to the mirrored walls. "Eric is good—but—but—" and she wept. She ran weeping, and finally she was back out in the big banquet hall. There sat King Chatter looking sullen. And there stood Eric. Leezen hesitated for a minute, and then she ran to his side and said, "Oh, I'm so glad to see you."

As she said it, King Chatter scorned loudly. His servants began putting out the fire, locking doors, clearing the table and pulling down shades.

"Come let's go," said Eric. They ran from the castle and down to the gate.

Tomorrow: A new task is set for Eric and Leezen.

Another ordinance providing for additional firemen to meet new state pension requirements was voted down upon advice of Fire Chief W. P. Mader, who informed council that he can continue under the present force until a broader study of the state law is made, especially in regard to fire insurance rates.

Resolutions adopted provided for the transfer of funds within the service department; approval of the sale of poor relief bonds, and a request to the state highway department to further delay its plan to route the Plymouth road into Bucyrus over the old Beech Grove road. Council is on record as favoring extension of Whetstone street to the Plymouth road and thus add a new route for the Plymouth road and, at the same time a new city street.

Three property owners on Union street petitioned council for city water. The matter was referred to the utility committee, which has other similar requests from other parts of the city.

Mayor George Dustman and other outgoing officers spoke their appreciation for cooperation during the last two years. The mayor and Councilmen L. T. Kinnett, W. F. Harter, Larry Schwein and Council President J. W. Loomis leave council at the next meeting.

Wagner Act and NLRB Policy Called Menace by Industrial Association

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Dec. 20—A committee of the National Association of Manufacturers declared today that the Wagner act and its administration by the national labor relations board are "a menace to the national welfare."

Recommending sweeping changes the committee said the act was based on "false assumptions," which "have frequently been magnified and accentuated by one-sided and biased administration."

The manufacturers' statement described as "definitely encouraging" the work of the house committee investigating the labor board, which recessed its hearings last night after two committeemen charged that board officials attempted to "entrap" the Inland Steel Co. into violating the labor law.

Nathan Witt, florid-faced board secretary, denied this was true but acknowledged that, before any charges were filed, he had made suggestions to C.I.O. union officials as to the "quickest way" to get a board decision on the case.

Witt, who was the board's assistant general counsel at the time, said he was acting with the board's full authority and that his idea was to speed up action toward settlement of the 1937 "Little Steel" strike, involving Inland and other companies.

Rep. Routzohn, Republican of Ohio, promptly commented that if entrapment as not involved, he did not understand the English language. Rep. Halleck, Republican of Indiana, joined in the criticism.

Edmund M. Toland, committee counsel, then offered for the record court decisions condemning public officials who "lure" others into crime.

Charles Fahy, board counsel, asserted that the labor board is not precluded by the law from "looking into" situations. Before charges are filed, where there are "possible" violations of the law. He said that other federal agencies, such as the interstate commerce commission, do the same thing.

With these statements, the committee closed eight days of testimony and recessed for the Christmas holidays until Jan. 5. Its recommendations probably will not be submitted until next year's session of congress is well under way.

After resuming in January, the house investigating committee will hold 10 or 12 days of hearings here and then go to other cities, including Detroit.

THREE REPUBLICANS SEEK NOMINATIONS

Two Announce for Commissioner, One for Recorder.

Three more candidates for Republican nominations in the May 1940 primary announced today they have taken out nominating petitions. They are William Risch of Big Island township and Clarence A. Mr. Rhoads, farmer and once county dog warden for six years, is the first candidate for recorder on either ticket. He served four years as township clerk. He is married and has two children. Paul B. Naher, Democrat, is now recorder.

Mr. Risch and Mr. Keil are the fourth and fifth Republican candidates for the two Republican nominations for commissioner.

Pupils of School Class Are Guests of Rotary Club

Crippled Children Attend Luncheon and See Movies.

[illegible] pupils of the crippled [illegible] class at George Washington elementary school were guests of the Marion Rotary club at its weekly luncheon meeting at the Harding yesterday. Following luncheon the children attended the Palace theater as guests of Manager George A. Hamid, a member of the club.

Pupils of the class are guests of the Rotary club each year just before Christmas. The club also provides entertainment for them at an outdoor camp in the summer.

The club's luncheon program included a group of Christmas carols by members of the class and a talk by C. A. Hudson, school superintendent, who discussed the work being done in the crippled children class and the special sight-saving class which also is held at George Washington school.

These two classes are representative of up-to-the-minute instruction for two large groups of special students—those who are handicapped physically—but there is a great need to provide special instruction for students with exceptionally low and exceptionally high learning abilities, he declared.

The problem of the sub-normal student who finds it impossible to keep up with the work of his fellow students is no greater than the problem of the exceptionally brilliant student who is "held back" by the other students, he said.

Dr. O. M. Young, chairman of the club's crippled children's committee, presided at the meeting and introduced Mr. Hudson. Gifts were presented to the students by the club.

Among guests at the luncheon meeting were Miss Rhea King, instructor of the crippled children's class, Miss Elizabeth Smythe, physiotherapist for the class, Miss Linda Willauer, principal of George Washington school, and Mrs. John Stafford, Mrs. Otis Young, Mrs. Floyd Yeager and Mrs. Dan Brickley Jr., all four of whom are wives of members of Rotary's crippled children's committee.

whatever nationality.

But that there is a certain universal direction in the trends of the times is discernible even in the obscurity of the aberrations and idiocies introduced by these leaders. And that direction is toward the liberation of humanity. The great question is whether the aberrations and idiocies, which have finally led to war, may not multiply into a pestilence that will bring the great central trend to a dead stop.

To see to it that they should not do so is one function of the neutral nations. There is a great hope in the heart of mankind. The neutral nations must nourish that hope.

BEATTY

an imposing combination of circumstances that clicked.

In the first place, Martin Dies hails from Texas. Big, blond, 38, lumbering, heavy-handed, he is the son of a typical Texas settler and a German-born mother, both of whom were substantial citizens. Red-blooded patriotism and spell-binding oratory came natural to him.

By 1938, Dies had gained himself some slight stature on the national scene as an alien-baiter, and a fellow who saw red every time he heard the word "Communism."

Add to these facts the nation's mounting interest in Communism and Nazism last year. Also that the LaFollette civil liberties committee of the senate was persistently taking testimony indicting big corporations for using labor spies to prevent workers from organizing. Some congressmen thought there should be an offsetting influence.

"Shirts" Getting Dirty

And about the same time, the shirt crowd—the brown, the silver, the gold, etcetera—were stirring things up in New Jersey, New York, California, and elsewhere.

In short, the time was ripe for an "ism" investigation, and things began to drop into place for Dies, like slot-machine cogs heading for the jackpot.

Contender for the distinction of harrying the isms was New York's Democratic representative, Samuel Dickstein, a Hitler-hater. But there were those who suspected Dickstein would not give all the isms their medicine in equal doses. Today Dies is accused, by the way, of accenting communism.

When the rules committee decided to vote out a resolution authorizing the ism hunt, Dies and Dickstein both had in bids. The Dies resolution rolled through.

There are people who suspect that Cactus Jack Garner cooked up the whole business to pave the way for the Garner-for-President campaign. Neither Dies nor Garner have deigned to notice this heresay.

Anyway, congress voted Dies $25,000 and the third ism hunt of the decade was on.

BERLIN, Dec. 20—Destruction of 23 British "vanguard" vessels by the German air force in three days was reported today by the German high command, which also said some prisoners had been taken in sallies against the Allies on the western front.

(The British have acknowledged loss of several fishing boats, accusing the German fliers of attacking them without provocation.)

The German communique said:

"Our scouting troops on the west front succeeded at several places in breaking into enemy positions, thereby taking a number of prisoners.

"The German air force during the past three days destroyed 23 ships of the British vanguard forces, among them the Peal, New Choice, Serenity, Elicad, Wray, Evalina, Sedgefly and Trinity. Losses by the Britons in the air battle of Dec. 18 were increased by two more planes. Thus the enemy's total loss that day can now be reported at 36 fighting planes of the Vickers-Wellington type."

Harding Cagers Favored to Defeat Galion for NCO Lead Tomorrow Night

Both Unbeaten in League Contests; Mt. Vernon's Entry Idle.

MARION HARDING and Galion basketball teams, two of the North Central Ohio conference's trio of unbeaten contenders for current laurels, will scrap it out for the right to stay in the driver's seat of the league race when they collide tomorrow night on the Marion Steam Shovel floor.

Despite showing little semblance of a title-bound team, the Presidents are slated to go into the melee as favorites. That is based on their record of four wins in five starts, which doesn't take into consideration the brand of basketball played. The victor will emerge as momentary leader of the NCO, since Mt. Vernon, the third undefeated entry, isn't active until Shelby visits the Jacket court Friday.

Marion's Record

To date Marion has whipped a quartet of foes, two of them considered fairly stiff competition in any circuit. After dropping the opener to Bellevue, 32-23, Coach Dewey N. Bohyer's men came back to down Delaware Willis, 30-26, Columbus North, 30-18, Shelby, 42-22 and Columbus Bexley, 34-22.

That array of wins gives the locals an offensive average of 31.8 points per game, on a total of 159 tallies, while opponents were credited with 120 markers, or a 24-point defensive mark. It is considerably above Galion's offensive score of 108 points against four foes for 27 each start, and a shade above the Orangemen's mark of 98 points for opponents, a defensive tally of 24.5.

Harding, to put the emphasis where it rightfully belongs, is the favorite not because its record is so astounding but because Galion's is less impressive. The Orangemen eked out a 31-30 decision over Willard in the opener, then romped over Plymouth, 30-18, had trouble stopping Bucyrus, 24-22 and then bowed rather unceremoniously before Mt. Gilead, 24-22.

Need to Pass a Little

If the regulars on the local combine heed Coach Bohyer's advice to "quit dribbling and pass the ball around," they may yet go places. The merit of his advice was shown emphatically against Bexley last Saturday night when the Prexies pulled a nip-and-tuck contest from the fire in the closing period. They had dribbled madly through the first three stanzas and managed to get only a small lead to show for their efforts.

Finally, and not a minute too soon, they relied on the style of play that has taken other Marion combines to league titles, and employed a fast breaking offense to mow down the defending Central Buckeye and district champions. When they begin to play four quarters of that brand of ball they'll comprise a power to be reckoned with, but until then it's only a matter of time until they face another fast-stepping crew like the Bellevue conquerors.

Next Game Jan. 19

Tomorrow night's game is the final home appearance for Harding until Jan. 19, when Bucyrus visits the Shovel court. Play will be suspended during the Christmas and New Year school holiday and activity will be resumed with a visit to Ashland, Jan. 5. The following week another road trip, one which may be the most important of the season, takes Marion to the home floor of Mt. Vernon.

The program will open at the Shovel court with a 7 o'clock preliminary and the varsity game is set to get under way an hour later.

Salem and Harpster, deadlocked for the runner-up post in the Wyandot county basketball league, will meet on the latter's court Friday night in this week's featured circuit duel.

Rural Cagers Near End Of First Half of Season

Review of the record of county league cage teams is particularly interesting as the clubs square off this week for games that will wind-up the first half of their 1939-40 campaigns.

Pleasant Township and Claridon, appearing to be the class of the boys' division, still remain unbeaten. Tonight Pleasant seeks its fourth loop win at LaRue, while another encounter takes Waldo to Agosta. Claridon does not have a circuit clash but entertains Cardington of Morrow county, tonight.

Thursday's only league duel takes Kirkpatrick to Morral, bringing together a pair of unbeaten feminine squads. Caledonia treks to Green Camp in an important game and Meeker is booked to visit Prospect, Friday night.

With five rounds of the schedule complete Pleasant tops the field in scoring. The team has collected 166 tallies in three games for an average of 41.5, only 1.1 better than Claridon, owner of 203 points in four starts for a 40.6 average.

Defensively the Prospect quintet heads the pack, having held four foes to 60 points, or only 15 each game. The offensive and defensive averages of the top five clubs follow: Offensive—Pleasant, 166 for 41.5; Claridon, 203 for 40.6; Green Camp, 148 for 29.6; LaRue, 115 for 28.8 and Prospect, 97 for 24.3; Defensive—Prospect, 60 for 15; Caledonia, 73 for 18.3; Claridon, 96 for 19.2; Pleasant, 83 for 20.8 an LaRue, 97 for 24.3.

The county's top five individual scorers are: Sims of Claridon, 67; Porter of Agosta, 55; N. Weston of Green Camp, 52; Caskey of Claridon, 45 and Cowgill of Pleasant, 44.

Is There a Guy Called Santa Claus? Marion Sports Leaders Sure Hope So

By CHARLES HOSTETLER
Marion Star Sports Editor

"YES, ALICE, there is a Santa Claus," reads a now famous editorial that first appeared many years ago in a New York newspaper.

Prominent figures in Marion's sports realm have every right to a firm belief in the existence of the venerable old gentleman, considering the favor with which Dame Fortune smiled on local athletics during the past 12 months.

But again it's time to renew acquaintance with Kris Kringle and one might easily imagine he'll find these letters in his mailbox before he starts out on his round of deliveries Sunday night:

Not that I'm ungrateful for past favors but couldn't you manage to hang a half-dozen, 170-pound football players on my Christmas tree. Three of them would help a lot in completing the forward wall of next year's Harding team. The others should be veterans with backfield experience. You know, I'm losing 21 of the boys from this year's squad, and their places are going to be hard to fill. If possible, make one of the backs a triple-threater. If you have a spare, who is good kicking field goals and extra points, send him along too.

Yours,
BILL WILLIAMS
Harding Grid Coach.

SANTA CLAUS:

I'm not blaming you, Santa, but last year after we won the North Central Ohio conference title, some one let us down and our team hit the skids in the first tournament game. Couldn't you please send me a little tournament pep tonic that I might use to dose the present squad? And maybe you have something that will convert my team into a superb passing combination instead of a bunch of individual dribbling demons. Next year, Santa, things will be blue unless you drop off a big bundle of experienced cagers. Most of my veterans graduate in June and we'll certainly need your help in 1940.

Regards,
DEWEY BOHYER
Harding Cage Coach

P. S. — Please add this to my list — a rabbit's foot to carry during the current NCO campaign. DEWEY

MY DEAR SANTA CLAUS:

You've done all right by us, Mr. Santa, and all we need is a continuation of the same treatment. But if there are anymore Schulers or Robbins hanging around the North Pole bring them with you—we can always find a place on our teams for boys who play the brand of ball they've been sporting. This year, Santa, you might help my team win two over Lancaster St. Mary, instead of only breaking even like last season—Lancaster is my home school and I'd like to beat them twice. Thanks again for all the help in the past.

Respectfully,
BERNARD BERENS
St. Mary Coach

DEAR KRIS KRINGLE:

I'm not going to ask for anything for myself, Santa, because I like to be generous. It would be a swell idea if you gave every one in Marion a greater desire to indulge in the splendid pastime of bowling. Another thing you might do is give the directors of some big tournament an incentive to stage their 1941 meets here. Course, we're hosts to the Inter-City meet in 1940, and if you could help a lot more of the boys come here we might break an attendance record. Any of those things will be appreciated, but you needn't bother about a special gift for me, cause I want nice things for other people, I'm generous.

Your pal,

SANTA CLAUS:

Just about 200 more paying customers every Monday night at the wrestling show will fill our Christmas stocking, if it isn't asking too much. We'd like it a lot, too, if you'd dig down in your pack for a husky light heavyweight wrestler—something like Sergeant Bob Kenaston—you remember, the guy who whipped two others in one night without taking a deep breath. Well, if we had a few more guys as colorful, this promotin' game would be a cinch. Couldn't we sign you for a personal appearance in a battle royal? We think that would be a "natural" if we could line up Joe Louis, Man Mountain Dean, Tony Galento, Peggy Hopkins Joyce, Clark Gable and Judge Kenesaw Mountain Landis for the same show.

Yours,
MARKERT & LEWIS

DEAR SANTY:

This is my first Christmas in Marion and I don't know for sure what I want . but a bunch of well organized gym volleyball and basketball classes probably would please my boss, so I'd like that to. But don't send me any more volleyball dubs cause we have trouble finding room for all of 'em now. You might send me any or all of the following list — new swimming pool, handball court, badminton set-, paying members, a new front for the Y building. (Editor's Note — three pages were deleted here for lack of space), weight-lifting apparatus and perhaps a new two-year contract for me. If there isn't room for everything in my stocking, drop the extras in Bob Hick's stocking, it will be hanging right next to mine.

LAYDEN CRITICIZES FOOTBALL MOVIES

Can Prove Both Sides, Irish Coach Says.

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., Dec. 20—Take it from Elmer Layden, "four-horseman" coach of Notre Dame, motion pictures of a football game "prove nothing except both sides of any argument which might have arisen during the contest."

The mentor of the Fighting Irish, heading through Ohio on a post season tour of football banquets, said he believed the ever-growing trend toward taking pictures of big-time games was becoming a menace to the sport.

"If it continues," he predicted, "the chances are we'll play our games on Saturday, have the pictures developed on Sunday, show them on Monday, and announce the official result on Tuesday.

"Judging by the arguments which arose this year, it would seem that no one knew what happened in any game until the pictures were shown, and then we always had two different versions backed up by pictures from opposite sides of the field."

Actor Feller?

Bob Ponders Bid from Movie Studio.

By The Associated Press

DES MOINES, Ia., Dec. 20—"I know I can act," Bobby Feller mused today as he pondered a Hollywood offer to make him a "celluloid cowboy."

Cleveland's 21-year-old ace pitcher received a bid from Republic Pictures to take prominent parts in a series of six westerns.

Feller talked over the proposition with friends at his Van Meter home and explained he would do nothing that might decrease his mound efficiency or detract from his baseball popularity.

Bob, who isn't at all apprehensive of his histrionic ability, pointed to a recent appearance here in a benefit performance in which he portrayed the part of a sports writer.

HOW STAGG STARTED

Fifty-five years ago a football enthusiast stopped a young Yale freshman crew member. "Me go out for football?" asked the freshman. "I don't know anything about it." However, he thought it over and went out. He was Amos Alonzo Stagg, dean of U. S. coaches.

This is a message intended to bring you lots of cheer,
Since Christmas Day is coming—the spending time of year!

For you it's spending—for us it's lending,
Now, why don't we get together;
If you can pay cash for Christmas bills,
In your cap'll be a feather.
The proof of the pie's in the eating—
You won't know till you try
How nice it is to use our service
And pay the cash when you buy.
And pay the cash when you buy.

CORRECTION

The headline on a news story in Tuesday night's issue of The Star over an article about the sale of a baby steer at Monday's auction of the Marion Live Stock Sales Co. erroneously referred to the animal as a bull. It was a six-months-old baby steer. It was donated by a Marion county resident with the proceeds, which totaled $87, being divided equally between Methodist Aid Societies at Likens Chapel and Kirkpatrick. The animal was purchased by Schroeder's Market at 160 North Main street at $10.50 per hundred pounds, $1.50 above regular market quotations for the day.

FIFTH AVENUE AND VINE STREET—CROSSROADS OF THE WORLD—SOMEBODY ONCE SAID THAT IF A PERSON STANDS HERE LONG ENOUGH, EVERYONE ON EARTH WILL PASS HIM—OK.—I'LL GIVE IT A TRY—C'MON, BABY!

IT TAKES ALL KINDS OF PEOPLE TO MAKE A WORLD—LOOK AT THOSE FACES—SAINTS AND SINNERS—HM—IF I KNOW ANYTHING ABOUT HUMAN NATURE, THAT GUY IS A CROOK—
HE'S COMING TOWARD ME—WELL, IF HE THINKS I'M A SAP, HE'S DUE FOR A RUDE SHOCK—HE'LL FIND OUT THAT I'M NOT IN THE MARKET FOR CUT-RATE POSTAGE STAMPS AT ANY PRICE—ALL HIS FACE NEEDS IS A JAIL WINDOW FOR A FRAME!
I'VE BEEN WATCHING YOU FOR A LONG TIME, MISTER—AND I DON'T LIKE YOUR FACE—MOVE ON BEFORE I ARREST YOU ON SUSPICION!

The Stars Say—

For Thursday, Dec. 21

The prospects are for a day of decided advancement upon desired ends, judging by the lunar aspects, although success and achievement must be wrested from difficulties and tenacious obstacles. These seem to be deep-rooted and treacherous, with both hidden and open dangers, delays and disappointments. But it is probable that all such frustrating circumstances may be dissolved by means of the collaboration, understanding and good will of superiors or employers. Sign papers carefully. Keep things harmonious and happy at home.

Those whose birthday it is may be assured of a year of ultimate triumph over conflicting circumstances, setbacks, duplicities and kindred adversities mainly through the good offices, wise counsel and confidence of employers, superiors or others of prestige and influence. Take pains to maintain happiness and harmony in personal relations.

A child born on this day may be studious and profound, almost to the point of gloom and melancholy, although it may be kindly, companionable and have friends and position among those of standing.

Ten new refineries will be established in Japan in the next five years for treatment of low content gold ore.

When the tread of a new automobile tire wears down until it becomes dangerous a red line appears as a warning.

Daily Pattern for Home Use

BY ANNE ADAMS

SLIM COTTON PRINCESS FROCK
PATTERN 4189

Every vivacious inch of Pattern 4189 has been carefully planned by Anne Adams to take away from your width and give you proud height. Those unbroken princess lines make your figure look lithe and graceful—they're quick as a flash to stitch up, too. Cut the two side-front panels and the back panel effectively on the bias. You'll find the neck-to-hem front buttoning a real blessing, for it lets you in and out with fireman speed and makes for speedy, flat ironing. The sleeves may be straight or with novelty openings. And just see the attractive shape of the collar—wouldn't it look fresh and pretty made of snow-white?

Pattern 4189 is available in women's sizes 34, 36, 38, 40, 42, 44, and 46. Size 36 takes 5¼ yards 35 inch fabric and ¼ yard contrast.

Send Fifteen Cents (15c) in coins for this Anne Adams pattern. Write plainly Size, Name, Address and Style Number.

"Now is the Time to prepare for Spring," says Anne Adams about her New Spring Pattern Book which is now ready for you to order. It's alive with attractive styles including a youth corner for tots, 'teens and twenties, evening-belle frocks, Spring bridal finery, carnival cottons and gay prints. You will even find balanced style for scale-tipping matrons and charm shop suggestions for forty-pluses. The book is fifteen cents but when ordered with a pattern, which is also fifteen cents, the Two Together Are Twenty-Five Cents.

Send your order to The Marion Star Pattern Department, 243 West 17th St., New York, N. Y.
